

LL Cool J, Quincy Jones, will.i.am, Herbie Hancock Weigh in on “Thrillercast”

Posted by Jamin Brophy-Warren

TAGS
KING OF POP
MICHAEL JACKSON
PODCASTS
THRILLER

Do you like “Thriller”? Of course you do. But if you really, really want to know everything about one of the best-selling albums of all-time, Speakeasy advises you check out “Thrillercast.”

Recorded by Joe Vella, this professional podcast series — which has also covered John Coltrane and Stephen Sondheim — has an amazing collection of talent weighing in on the importance of the record and was released for “Thriller 25,” a remastered CD collection for the anniversary of the record. Vella worked closely with Legacy Records to procure an astonishing cast to weigh in on “Thriller” including Black-Eyed Peas producer will.i.am, producer Quincy Jones, rapper LL

Cool J, and Weird Al Yankovic. It also includes many of the people behind the scenes such as Larry Hamby, who managed the recording sessions for the album, and one of the men who danced with Jackson in his “Beat It” video.

Continue Reading... →

Comment

Share:

facebook